Sentimental Cranks Commend Miss Neal For Killing of Lover

(By Associated Press)
Kansas City, Mo., June 6—Letters of sympathy and praise for her "courage and good marksmanship" have been received by Miss Peggy Marie Neal, as she lay on a hospital bed fighting a battle for life against a wound sustained when she attempted to take her own life early Sunday after she had shot and killed Frank Warren Anderson, department store welfare director in a local hotel.

"Our sympathy is yours," read one of the letters. "The world needs more girls who have the courage and ability to shoot straight. We regret, however, that you shot you self. There is plenty to live for. The stars are up there yet and the flowers bloom the same as ever."

Miss Neal was on the road to recovery, hospital attendants said. Physicians were watching closely, but her condition today all was not so good to converse with her.

Collingswood, N. J., June 6—Denial that Frank Warren Anderson, who was shot and killed in a Kansas City hotel last Saturday night by Peggy Neal, was either a gay Lothario or a "perfect lover," was made today by F. M. Anderson, his father.

"The boy was no doubt romantic, like thousands of other boys," said Mr. Anderson, "but he never did a mean thing in his life, was never cruel to a living thing. I wish to state emphatically that the list of 51 names does not represent love affairs. The list contains names and addresses of schoolmates back to the ages of 14 and 15. No mention has been made of the male names found in the list. He was a methodical boy and from the time he went to school kept records, names and addresses."

The young woman, told that she stood a good chance to recover, turned her face to the wall.

"I want to die," she said.

Then she beckoned to a nurse. "I'm not sorry I shot him," she gasped. "He deserved it. I did right to shoot him. I should have killed him before I did."

At Miss Neal's request, visitors were barred from her room yesterday. Physicians last night said that in spite of a bullet through her lung, Miss Neal's chances of recovery are good and that her condition has improved.

Meanwhile Anderson, whose body awaits directions from relatives in Collingswood, N. J., was not without visitors. Women came to see the body of the man, declared by Miss Neal to have been "the perfect lover," the man who, according to the girl, boasted to her of his conquests, told her fifty women loved him and declared:

"Peg, I'd a devil. I love no woman." A possible echo of another romance was seen by the police yesterday in the story of a woman who called by telephone to the hotel where Anderson and Miss Neal had lived as man and wife. This telephone call came the night after the tragedy, and the woman asked for "Mr. and Mrs. Anderson." The hotel clerk told her what had happened, and the woman screamed:

"Dead!" she cried. "Oh, no; I can't believe it!"

She asked where the body had been taken, and yesterday a woman about 30 years of age, who refused to give her name, asked to see the body. She said she had been a friend of the dead man and had known him in department store welfare work, she said. She was permitted to see the body, gazed at it a long time and shuddered.

"How could she!" she exclaimed, and added, "What devils women are!" Then she left.

Letters from Anderson's father in Collingswood, N. J., found after his death, spoke of a woman, referred to enter nurses' training at Dr. Martin Smith's sanitarium.

—Mrs. C. A. Farmer and Mrs. Herbert Moore, of Montgomery, Ala., are spending some time in the city, dividing their visit between Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Farmer and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Coleman.

—Colonel S. J. Hilburn will spend tomorrow in Bunnell on legal business, and will spend Thursday in DeLand.

—T. J. McReynolds, Sr., left Saturday for his home in Hopkinsville, Ky., after spending a short time in Florida, visiting at Daytona, San Mateo and Palatka, where he was the guest of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George McReynolds.

as "B," who might be following the young man.

Anderson, it is indicated in his papers, was an officer in the air service during the war. He was never sent overseas, apparently, but he prized his army experience greatly. The aviator-department store employee, solaced himself after the war by writing romances. In one of these the hero was an army flier, who achieved undying fame during the war and fell in love with a girl who scorned him because of his father's wealth. But the flier found her at last, living in the South Seas, where she had fled to escape his attentions. Letters from Anderson to Miss Neal spoke of the possibility of honeymooning in the South Seas.

But the romance of Anderson and Marie Neal ended in a hotel bedroom in the gray of the dawn, not in an atmosphere of tropical birds and flowers, but of clanging trolley cars, taxicabs and rumbling trains. Anderson, according to the girl, had told her he had changed his mind—that he could not marry her now. Later, perhaps. He had not divorced his wife yet, he said, according to Miss Neal.
